GERMAN VENEZUELAN INTERESTS.

They May be Used as a Subterfuge for Acquiring an Island Off, the Coast, and This Would Call for Interference by WASHINGTON, June 18.—There is reason to believe that the United States governmont will have occasion at no distant day to give another interpretation of the Monroe doctrine as applicable to the acquisition of an island of the coast of Venezuala to be used by Germany for a naval station. The attention of officials recently has been directed to the interests of Germany in that locality, and there is apprehension that the subject may assume quite as formidable an aspect as that of British aggression on Venezuelan soil.

An enormous amount of German capital has been invested in Venezuela of late under peculiar circumstances. The government wanted a railroad through a rich and productive valley, and a German syndicate stood ready to build the road on condition that Venezuela would guaranteo 7 per cent, on the capital invested. The guarantee was given and the road completed and put into operation about eight months ago. It was supposed that about $4,000,000 would amply cover the cost of the road. but the actual outlay reached about $8, 000.000. By the terms of the guarantee Venezuela now becomes responsible to the German syndicate for a 7 per cent, return on this $8,000,000. The road, has not been in operation long enough to determine what it will earn, but its most sanguine promoters do not hope that it will pay 7 per cent, on the outlay. Whatever it carns will be applied on the investment, and Venezuela then will have to give sufficient to bring the carnings up to Ther cent. It is said to be this and similar German interests that are inclining the German government to regard with favor the acquisition of an island off the Venezuela coast to be used as a naval station, and as a sort of base of operations, for Germany on the American continent. The guarantee of Venezuela to the German syndicate is of a private character, the German government having no interest in the matter, but it is looked upon as affording aconvenient means by which the government in giving protection to its citizens. could also carry out its desires for the acquisition of a naval station.

The circumstances are such as to lead to the bollef that the United States will be called upon again to define to what extent the acquisition of territory by foreign | yesterday.

powers on South American soil, is compatible with the Monroe doctrine.

Great Britain already possesses an island at the mouth of the Orinoco, on which a powerful naval station has been astablished. There are two other islands near by, owned by Venezuela, either of which would be well adapted to Germany's needs. There is another large island, further up the const. but it constitutes a province of Venezuela, and its people have such intense loyalty to Venezueia than they have been named "new Spartans." They undoubtedly would resist any separation; even if Venezuela assented to it.

At the moment that this German phase of the Venezuelan question is making its appearance the British branch of the subt is presenting a more favorable aspect. Official intelligence has recently reached here that Sir Vincent Barrington, representing the most extensive British interests in Venezuela, has most strongly urged upon the British government the importance of an amicable settlement with Venezuela as a means of protecting British investments in that country. Since the withdrawal of the British minister at Venezuela as a result of the houndary trouble Sir Vincent Barrington has stood as the representative of Britain in that

Indicted Men Give Bail.

TRENTON, June 18.-Otto Heintz and Emil Krauetier, a New York job printer. who were indicted by the Mercer county grand jury for conspiracy to defraud the state, by reason of the exposure before the senute investigating committee, gave bail to the sheriff for their appearance in court tomorrow. The accused men are German printers, and the allegation is that they accepted money from another printer to refrain from bidding on certain state work.

Negro Incendiaries Arrested.

KINGSTON, N. C., June 18 .- For six months incendlary fires have been remarkably frequent here. Howards aggregating $3,000 were offered, and detectives have been at work. Three negroes, Isaiah Hill, Alex Rouse and Hall Davis, were arrested yesterday: Hill confessed that he and Davis caused one of the largest fires. Evidence is strong against all the men. There have been in all nine fires, with a total loss of over $190,900.

Big Postoffice Robbery at Montgomery. MONTOOMERY, Ala., June 18:-A big postoflice robbery has just come to light here. Josiah Morris & Co., bankers, sent on Saturday a, $10,000 package to a New York bank. A postal agent came and receipted to the Montgomery postoffice for the money package. Shortly afterwards the mail pouch was found out open. Postmaster Screws telegraphed Inspector Harrett at Chattanooga to come immediately and investigate the matter. Charles Armstrong, a postoffice employe, returned the package on Sanday, claiming he had found it in the street. Armstrong was arrested

A GOVERNOR IN DANGER.

Georgia's Chief Magistrate May Die from an Attack of Appendicitis.

ATLANTA. June 18.—Apprehensions of a fatal outcome of an attack of appendicitis with which Governor Atkinson was seized on Sunday, though removed for a time yesterdar, were renewed last night, and grave fears are now entertained that death may ensue. The governor rested in comcarative comfort in the afternoon, our at night his condition became rapidly worse. A lawyer was summoned and the governor made his will. An operation was performed on the patient, but the result isas yet unknown.

RELIEVED OF HIS COMMAND.

Commander Ide Leaves the Alert for Disrespect to Admiral Bleade.

Washington, June 18.—Commander George Ide, of the Alert, now at Panama. has been relieved of his command by a cable order. He will be succeeded by Commander Franklin Hanford, as present on duty at the New York navy yard. who will take the steamer of July 30 for the ischmus. Commander Ide. however, will be relieved immediately, not being allowed to retain his command until his successor reaches his ship. The reason for this summary action is found in charges preferred by Rear Admiral Meads that the commander had treated him with

The incident occurred at Panania last spring. Admiral Meads and Assistant Secretary McAdoo, while cruising in the Curribbean sex had touched at Color. and the two officials crossed the isthmus to Panama on the raffroid. Here they met Commander Ide, and it was during this meeting that the incident occurred. that led the admiral to prefer charges against the commander. The department acted deliberately in the master, making a careful investigation into the case, and mail to Commander Ide to afford him an opportunity to defend himself Appurensity his answer was not satisfactory, as his removal from his command followed. Commander Ide will go on waiting orders for an indefinite period of time:

Terrible Collision Averted.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 18.—Yesterday a heavily londed coul car broke loose from ts fastening at the Franklin mine and dashed down the mountain. When it eached the main truck of the Central Railroad of New Jersey it had gained a speed of a mile a minute: A passenger train from Seranton was expected soon. and word was sent ahead to clear the track. The operator at the Jersey Central office ordered a switching engine to be run our on the main track. The runaway car was mer and halred, but the engine was smashed into old fron.

Town Threatened by Forest Fires.

BRADFORD, Pa. June 18 .- A terrible prest fire is raging in the Kinzun valley. A telephone message from Mount Jewert stated that a special train had just left that place for Kashequa with 100 men and all the hose that the town could spare. About 400 men are throwing an embankments and making every effort to save the town. The fire is advancing toward the village and nothing, it seems, can be done to stop its progress. (infiney's chemical factory is in the direct course of the great sea of flames and its destruction is almost inevitable.

Portugal's Capitoi Partially Destroyed. Liszon, June 18.—The chamber of deputies was destroyed by thre yesterday afternoon. Flames broke out on the roof at 1 o'clock, the fire being caused by a pinmber who had been at work there. The man left his work for some time, neglecting to extinguish his brazier. The flames were under control before the fire could spread to the chamber of peers, but the chamber of deputies and the archives were destroyed. Four persons were injured dur#### ing the conflagration. Another Exploding Boiler:

ATTICA, Ind., June 18.-While workmen were driving a well with a steam drill the boiler exploded. William Smith was instantly killed and Frank Poterson died within twenty minutes. Leonard Stambard was horribly scalded and will hardly recover. J. W. Hamer, Alex Hamer. Henry Stumar and a younger son of J. H. Hamer were all more or less scalded and otherwise injured.

A Setback for Street Railway Companies. TRENTON, June 18 .- The court of errors and appeals decided a number of cases which were brought to assail the legality of the franchises obtained by the Camden Horse Railroad company and the West Jersey Traction company, in Stockton township. The effect of the opinions is a setback for both companies.

New Ponnsytvania Judges:

HARRISBURG, June 18 .- Governor Hackngs has appointed John W. Reed, of Brookville, president judge of Jefferson county, and Alexander D. McConnell, of Greensburg; additional judge of Westmoreland county, to serve until January 1. 1330. Bath offices were created by the Lev judicial apportionment till.

THE COLLEGE ATHLETES

The Challenge of Oxford and Cambridge Arrives by Cable.

THE MEN OF HARVARD DISPLEASED

They Will Probably Refuse to Participate in a Series of College Contests Which Excludes the University of Pennsylvania and Other Colleges.

London, June 18 .- The challenges sent by the athletic clubs of Oxford and Cambridge univerities to the athletic clubs of Yale and Harvard universities were posted on Monday of last week, and left for New York on June 13 by the White Star line steamer Germanic, due to reach that port on June 20 Although two challenges were sent, they are identical in wording. One copy was sent to the captain of the Yale Athletic club and another one to

The challenges suggest the following events: One bundred yards dash; quarter mile run; half mile run; three mile run and mile run; hurdle races, 130 yards, one according to English rules and one according to American rules; high jump; long jump; bammer throw, and weight put-

HARVARD MAY DECLINE. Objects to Other American Colleges Being Excluded from the Contests.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 18.-A represantative of the Associated Press delivered to Professor Ames, chairman of the athletic committee of Harvard college, a copy of the challenge sent by the Oxford and Cambridge universities of England to Yale and Harvard as representatives of America. Professor Ames read the challenge fully and then said:

"I cannot give you my opinion as to what the outcome of this challenge will be in view of the fact that I will be called upon to pass upon it officially, and it would not be just the thing for me to make a statement for publication until the master has been considered and disposed of by the athletic committee with the decision in question rests. A special meeting of the committee will be called at once to pass upon this challenge, and I think the matter should be decided within a day or two.

Captain Bingham, of the Harvard track athletic team, and President Crompton, of the Athletic association, are not in Cambridge. Neither and any of the other members of the athletic committee be found who would be quoted. The is sociated Press can state, however, that there is but very listle chance that Harvard will accept the challenge as it stands, and participate in an international meeting with Yale as the only other representative of the American colleges. This is not because of the present survived r tween Yale and Harvard in football, but because Harvard's athletic advisers believe that she cannot justly accept the challenge and ignore other colleges which Harvard men believe are entitled to consideration. Harvard is very anxious to have some of her men meet the English athletes in an international meeting, but as she now holds third place in the intercollegiate association. Yale being in first place and the University of Pennsylvania second, the athievic authorities believe that it would be very bad policy to ignore the University of Pannsylvania and the other minor colleges, and accept the present

Harvard men believe that an international meeting of college athletes should only be arranged according to one of three propositions. First, that the winner of a meeting between Oxford and Cambridge should meet the two leading colleges in America. Second, that the two leading colleges of England would meet the two leading colleges of America. Third, that if the Englishmen wish Harvard to be represented in an international meeting Oxford and Cambridge would meet the three leading colleges of America. Harvard being thus included, or if the challengers so desire, the third college in England might also be represented in the team from the other side.

This feeling is all due to the fact that Oxford and Cambridge ignored the challenge of the Intercollegiate association. The University of Pennsylvania men suggested this challenge and feel burt because it has been refused. Other colleges in the association are now much agitated because of the counter challenge which has-come from the other side and which ignores them entirely. Harvard is friendly with the University of Pennsylvania and with other colleges in the association and believes that it would be bad policy and an injustice to accept this challenge. Harvard's answer to the proposition will undoubtedly be transmitted to the Yale authorities within a few days, and if the latier have no suggestion to make it will then be forwarded to England.

THE VALE MEN EAGER. Evidently Auxious for a Contest with English College Athletes. NEW HAVEN, June 18.-The full text of the challenge from Oxford and Cambridge to Yale and Harvard was delivered to Sherman Day, the newly elected president of the Yale Athletic association, by the Associated Press, Oxford and Cambridge having availed themselves of that means of rapid communication. President Day

'While it is impossible for me to state definitely at this time what will be done, I can see no reason why it should not be accepted. When the challenge has been received the matter will then come up be fore our association for official consideration. We shall then inform our alumni, and will be largely governed by their advice. I presume that our association will advise with the Harvard Athletic association, but all this depends on circumstances. It is likely that the whole matter of dealing with the challenge will be referred to the Union Track Athletic Cup association, and in that case it will be taken but of the hands of the undergraduates. I do not wish to say anything at this time that will prejudice Yate position in were spoken.

the future, but I can say this much: That Yale is perfectly willing to take part in the proposed games."

The track arrangements for the Yale contingent will probably be under the direction of Mr. Day and S. K. R. Wade, president of the '95 association, As to how the Harvard-Yale team will be selected, President Day said that any statement at this time would be mere speculation.

OUR WARSHIPS AT KIEL

They Will be Elaborately Decorated with Incandescent Electric Lights.

HAMBURG, June 18.—There has been an enormous influx of visitors here to view the ceremonies and spectacles incident upon the opening of the Baltie-North Sea canal at Kiel.

The American men-of-war at Fiel will be illuminated by electricity every night during their stay at that port. It is intended that the cruiser New York shall be provided with incondescent lights and each of the remaining three ships of Admiral Kirkland's fleet will baye about 1,500, busides the usual powerful search

The incandesdent lights will be arranged in brillians designs, each vessel carrying around the pilot house an immense shield representing the American coat-of arms, the red and white bars and the stars on a blue background heing produced by electric bulbs. This shield will be 16 feet high and will extend back on each side of the pilot house 24 feet. Around the stern of each ship will be displayed its name in large electric letters. In addition incandescent lights will be strung along each vessel's stem and stern from the water to the deck, and along the deck rail from end to end on both sides. The hall of each ship will thus be completely outlined, another row of lights being run along the water line, and other lines being run up the masts and down the sidestays and up and down and around the smoke stacks. The United States men-of-war will also make elaborate displays of fireworks during the progress of

MARRIAGE OF THE WATERS The Barlem Ship Canal Opened with Elaborate Ceremonial.

NEW YORK, June 18 .- The Harlem ship canal, which connects the Hudson river with Long Island sound, was formally opened yesterday afternoon with a monster aquatic and land parade, in which the United States army and navy, the state millifia and naval reserve, the city police and fire departments and numerous civic bodies were represented. The parade was watched by 50,000 or more people stationed along the line of march and on the banks of the canal.

The water pageant was the feature of the demonstration. At 12 o'clock one of the big guns of the warship Cincinnati becomed out the signal-for the divisions of the flotilla to take place in line. The head of the column formed about 20) yards from

When the hattery of the Cincinnati gave the opening salute of six guns there was a rattling of chains at the railroad crossing ut the entrance of the canal. All the vessels in the first division were in line, and amid the screaming of whisties from the whole deet, and while the Cincinnati's guns were still booming, the tug Scandinavian, which led the procession, swept through the opening, closely followed by half a dozen little steam launches, which came up in double file and shot ahead,

Then came a score or more of barges tugs and exearsion steamers. The flagship Elalne, with the invited guests, led the second division of the parade, and there was another blast from the whistles as she went through the draw. Following her were a score or more of tug boats, most of which had been chartered for the occasion by various organizations. Last of all came the steam yachts. In all there were seventy vessels in the flotilla.

The rowing clubs fell in behird the Scandinavian in the first division and went down the river four abreast. Passing through the Harlem river the water parade made its way to the rendezvous just off Oak Point. There the land forces drew up and the salute from the Cincinnati was answered by a salute on land and the cheers of the multitude of people gathered in the woods along East Harbor; for future settlement. at Oak Point.

It was here that the members of the Young Lady Naval guards with much ceremony placed their hands on the kegs carried by the Blaine, containing the waters from historical spots, while the waters were tumbled into the sound and

THE CONTEST FOR PRESIDENT

A Report That Stephen B: Elkfüs Will Oppose General McAlpin, the Choice of the New York Delegates. The Iowans Will Not Demand Free Silver.

CLEVELAND, June 18 .- Many delegates and visitors have already arrived here to attend the National Republican league convention which begins tomorrow Among those who reached the city rester day was Secretary Humphrey, of Chicago and President B. Tracy arrived today. The Morquette club, of Chicago, is coming on a special. Senator Warner Miller is coming with the New York delegation, and George Gunter, of the New York school of economics is coming on the New York train to answer the silverites should occarried demand it. casion demand it. Professor Williams, of Brown university, will also be here.

The ladies' reception committee have opened headquarters at the Hollenden, with Mrs. Catherine H. T. Avery in charge. Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, president of the Woman's Republican Association of the United States, arrived at the Hol-lenden this forenoon. It is now reported that Senator elect Stephen B. Elkins, of West Virginia, has entered the race for president of the league, and that he will come to town with the West Virginian delegation in the hopes of winning a victory against the McAlpin forces. The New Yorkers are entrenched in their belief that their candidate cannot by any possible chance be beaten.

There is a quiet, but strong, undercur-rent of sentiment favoring H. Clay Evans. of Tennessee, for president of the league, and the strength which he may develor depends upon his willingness to allow his friends to formatly present his name before the convention.

One of the early far western arrivals is Frank W. Bicknell, the Iowa member of the National leage. Mr. Bicknell is the editor of the Des Moines State Register. and is in touch with the politics of his his state. "Are the people of Iowa going to de-mand free silver?" he was asked.

No sir, we are going to be very conservative on that point. It is not the prove ince of this convention to formulate of even souch upon the policy of the Repub-lican party. We stand with Senator Alli-son in his speech he made at the Pittsburg Americus club banquet on Grade's birthday, which is for bi-metallism. HER WEDDING OUTFIT. What Old Man Boggs Theoght She Ought

I was standing in front of the Pine Mountain Lumber company's store, situate on the upper waters of the Cumberland, when old man Boggs came up from the sawmill on the bank of the river and approached me with some degree of doubt, I, thought, from his manner. Seeing no the else around, he became easier and greeted me pleasantly.

"How are you, Mr. Boggs?" I said in return for his salutation. "Fine day. Any news up the mountain?",

"I'm tollible like, I reckon," he responded. "Nothin happenin our waymuch. But that ain't what I want to talk to you about, colonel." he added, relapsing into the manner of doubt I thought I had observed at first.

"Well, what is it? Any shooting going on or liable to?"

"Reckon not. Most uv the boys has gone to Looisville fer witnesses agin them moonshiners, and things is restin some." "Then what troubles you?"

He came up quite close to me and looked over his shoulder to be sure there was no one in hearing distance, except myself. "Air you a married man, colonel?" he asked in a whisper.

"I am not so fortunate," I admitted. with as much gallantry of manner and as pretty a candor as if a dozen women had

"Then I reckon you ain't much knowin on sich things as havin yer gals gettin

"Hardly," I confessed, with a smile.
"Anyhow," he suid resignedly, "you air old enough to be, and I want you to gîmme a liit.

"How do you mean?" I inquired in sur-"Don't git skeert," he grinned. "It's only my gal Susan."

"Oh," I said in a tone of relief. "She's going to get married, is she?" "Kinder that away. I want to git some wedding fixin's and don't want to git em frum the young feller in the store.

Won't you fix 'em up fer me?" "Certainly," and we went in. "By the v .. I inquired, "is Susan your oldest daughter?"

'No; she is the youngest." "Isn't that rather cutting the others

-I recken not," he laughed. "You see, they take atterme, and I didn't git spliced till I was past 40. Susan takes atter her mammy. She got me afore she was 26." He laughed again, and I laughed with him and threw out several pieces of dress goods on the counter. "I suppose you want something white." I said, spreading the goods out so he could see the effect. "That will be very nice for

'What's the tax on it?" he asked, without touching it, showing that he was not ersed in dry goods. "Two bits a yard."

"Geenmently gosh, colonel!" he exclaimed, starting back. "I can't afford no such goods as that. Silks and satings ain't fer we uns. Hain't you got some calico?" "Plenty of it," I said, and I dumped an armful down on the counter. "What's this wuth?" he asked, picking out a bright yellow piece with a red vine trailing through it.

"That's 10 cents a yard, and it will only take ten yards for the pattern."

"That's $1, ain't it?" he inquired, after a moment's mental calculation.

"Exactly." "Gimme that, colonel. Susan allus had a weakness fer yaller. It kinder matches her freckles, she says." I cut off the amount called for and laid

"What kind:" I asked, not caring to nazard my judzment again. "How do they run in price?"

"From $1.50 up."
"That's pretty steep fer a gal that's been userer goin bar'footed, I reckon," be mused, "but a gal don't git hitched every day, and I s'pose I kin stand it. Jim'll have to buy 'em fer her anyhear after this. Lemme have one uv them pa'r at a dollar fifty." "What size" "About sevens, I reckon," he said.

'Six is her size in summer time, but gittin married is makin her kinder proud and she says, she's goin to wear stockin's, so you see, colonel, we'd better git 'em a size bigger to 'low fer the extry.' I picked out a pair of No. 7's, neat, but not gandy, and had them beside the calico,

"Now," I said, getting ready to show him a few other articles for a trousseau,

"What else is thar to git" he asked in guildless astomshment. "Am't that enough weddin fixin's fer any gal? Them cost $2.50, didn't they?" "Yes, but Is thought she might want something else perhaps."

That remark didn't begin to express all that was in my mind, but it was the best I could do under the circumstances
"Likely she does" he replied, "but it's Jim's turn to do the buyin now. I've done my sheer."

"When is the wolding?" I inquired as I wrapped up the trousseau I had sold him. "It's done tuck. The answered as though surprised at my question.

I was puzzled to the full extent. "I don't understand what you mean," I

"The weddin's over," he explained. "It tuck place yistiddy." "But what are you getting these things for now?" I asked, more astonished than

"Caze, now's the time," he said, with a short hugh. "You don't reckon I was goin to git all these yer weddin fixin's aforehand and run the resk uv havin the whole shootin match flash in the pan, do you? Jim's stiddy and shore footed, but Susan gits to steppin mighty high and actin frisky when she's got good clo's on to her back. The Great Structure Erected by Order of Philip II of Spain.

The Escurial, built by Philip II between 1568 and 1584, was called "the eighth wonder of the world," says a special correspondent of the Boston Herald. It was at once a temple, a palace, a treasury, a tomb and a museum. That is to say, all these were included in the huge building which Philip crected on the slope of a spur of, the Guadarama range, 32 miles northwest of Madrid. The builder's object was to carry out the will of his father, Charles V, by constructing a royal burial place, and also to fulfill a vow he had made during the battle of St. Quentin, when he implored the aid of St. Lorenzo, on whose day (Aug. 10, 1557) the battle was fought.

.The edifice stands about 3,000 feet above the sea, facing the mountains, with its back toward Madrid. It is a rectangular parallelogram, 740 feet from north to south, and 580 from east to west. On the east side is an advanced portico which breaks the facade. This gave rise to the vulgar impression that Philip's idea was to make the building in the shape of a gridiron, an allusion to the manner of St. Lorenzo's martyrdom, he having been broiled to death on a slow fire in the reign of the Roman Emperor Valentianus, A. D. 261. There seems to be no other ground for the fanciful invention.

The building covers 500,000 square feet of land, or nearly 12 acres. It has 16 courtyards, 86 staircases, 15 cloisters, 88 fountains and 3,000 feet of painted fresco. The church, which occupies less than a sixth of the whole space, is 320 feet long, 230 feet wide and 320 feet high to the top of the cupola. The redeeming qualities of the enormous structure are size, simplicity and situation. It seems to be a part of the mountain on the slope of which it rises. It still looks grand even among mountain buttresses. Otherwise, it disappoints. Its architecture has little in form or color to commend it. It lacks the prestige of antiquity, and it does not express any religious sentiment. It might be a vast mannfactory. Its cold granite walls, blue slates, leaden roofs and small windows give it a commonplace appearance.

Of cours it is now little more than a skeleton of what it was. The living monks who swarmed in its courts are here no longer. The revenues on which they hved have been taken away. The French soldiers stole and carried away many of its golden ornaments in 1808. Its best pictures have been removed to Madrid. The building has suffered from neglect, expesed to hurricanes and winter snows. Better care has been taken of it in later years. It is now used as a seminary, where about 200 youths receive a secular education.

PRAISE YOUR WIFE.

Say to Her the Pleasant Things You Say to Other Women.

"How do I look?" asked a young wife who stood before her husband dressed to attend a party with him. He raised his eyes from the paper he was reading, looked at her critically "All right. You'll do."

Her heart sunk, and her hips quivered, but he did not know it. She was conscious of looking her best, and she wanted_a word of praise, of admiration, from her husband, and she failed to receive it.

Why was he so gradging of his praise? Ask the average man who answers his wife in that way when she asks his opinion, as she invariably does, and he will tell you that she always looks well -dressed in good taste and above criticism. But why doesn't he say that to her, or rather why does he not make a little loverlike speech for such an occasion? Even the courteous remarks he would bestow on the costume of an ordinary acquaintance are withheld from his own wife.

There was a husband-he is dead now -who used to say to his wife, "My dear, you are looking charming this evening," or, "I love you best in that blue dress of yours." He was a poor stick of a man in the way of worldly success, but his widow canonized him for just those loving tributes, given to her with a lover's deference after many years of wedded life.

"Oh," said a disappointed woman, "I would like to be a man just to show what a good husband I could be."—Detroit Free Press.

Beware of Ointment for Catarrh that Contains Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Brings comfort and improvement and nds to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more; with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid axative principles embraced in the emedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truty beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidheys, Live, and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from wery objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50 cent bottles, but it is mannfactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

A Beverage for Wheelmen.

Next to being lost at sea there is nothing that brings on the pangs of thirst quicker than bicycle riding. The hot sun and the constant inhalation of dust quickly parches the throat and makes the biker long for the next stop for refreshments. The wise rider avoids ice water, well knowing its danger. Alcoholic beverages are likewise tabooed because of their heating propensities, and there is little satisfaction in wishywashy stuff sold under the broad classication of "soft drinks." A wellknown wheelmen, in speaking of this, said:

"What to drink is no easy problem to a man on along, hot run. The only drink I know really fit for a bicycle rider is Hire's Rootbeer, carbonated. There are but few places now at which it cannot be had. and I tell you it braces one right up, seems to go right down to the bottom of your pedal workers. It is cooling and refreshing, quickly lowering your temperature and fully satisfying your thirst I tell you there's nothing like it, and I've sworn off all other drinks when on the road." Hire's Rootbeer, carbonated, is made from the famous Hire's Routbeer extract by the same formula, without adulteration of any kind Besides being delicious it possesses many medicinal qualities, making it as popular with wheelmen and pedestrians as the good home-made Hire's Rootbeer is with the folks at home.

The C. E. Social-Parewell Sermon-Coing Abroad-Scholars at Churchmay Stolen from a Field-Death of Mrs. Andrews-Other Notes.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY. -The C. E. festival was fairly attended. In a financial way the soclety has done better, but the young people had the satisfaction of serving a ve y fine quality of cream of their own manufacture to all these who were present, and the praises received were very gratifying to them as beginners.

-Rev. S. R. Queen preached his last sermon as pastor of the Presbyterlan Church, Sunday moraing. The evening service was conducted by the C. E. Society. Reports were read by Misses Edna Beyes and Mira Green, delegates to the county convention at Monroe. The reports were well written and helped to make the meeting a very interesting one.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Queen, were at the depot, Monday morning, to wish them "bon voyage." The Sunday School class of which Mrs. Queen had been teacher was well represented. She is a lady of exceptional worth, and those who knew her best loved her most. They have gone from our village carrying with them the best wishes of many friends. The Albany Street Railway Company proposes to test in the courts the constitutionality of the law passed last winter requiring street railroads to carry free, policemen and firemen who are on duty. The railroad will refuse transportation to the police and firemen and leave it to the city of Albany to institute legal proceedings. The contention of the railroad company is that the legislature had no more right to try and fill its cars with deadheads than it has to compel truckmen, expressmen and farmers to provide transportation for city employes.

Ex-Police Inspector Williams announces himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Senator in the Twelfth District. He will andoubtedly have Mr. Platt's help in getting the nonination and although Mr. Williams, while on the police, was not in sympathy with reform and his record does not indicate that he is of the stuff of which reformers are made, the "reformere," "goo-goos" and all the other political theorists may be depended on to accept him, record and all, as against any candidate, no matter how able and upright that the Democrats can name.

Republican leaders are making vention of Republican Clubs to be held at Cleveland, to-morrow, and, with a view to side tracking the currency issue, eastern delegates propose to force the tariff question to the front. Western delegates will not accept this programme, asserting with much truth, that silver coinage is the most important issue before reference to christianity.

A Party of Middietowners Enjoy a Sail on Mr. P. O. Rockatellow's Blivette.

A party of gentlemen from this city spent a most delightful day on the Hudson River, yesterday, making a trip from Cornwall to Poughkeepsie, as guests of Mr. F. O. Rockafellow on board his naphtha launch, "Olivette."

The weather was all that could be desired, although on the return trip both wind and tide were against the boat, the result being that the last train for Middletown was missed and the party was obliged to remain in Newburgh over night.

The party consisted of Mr. Rockafellow, Captain A. E. McIntyre, Ensign W. V. N. Powelson, Lucius Robinson, of Elmira, Atlan Corwin. W. F. Bailey and A. E. Nickinson.

A short stop was made at Newburgh and a visit paid to Captain Chase, of the 5th Separate Co., and at Poughkeepsie Captain Waring, of the 15th Separate Co., was visited. A peep was had of the training quarters of the Cornell crew. Pough keepsie anticipates a big crowd to witness the triangular boat race on Friday of this week.

At Cornwall the party were shown a sturgeon weighing 360 pounds, which had been caught the day before by a young lad. It was seven feet in length.

A BATHER'S CLOTHING STOLEN.

Two Brothers suspected of Stealing the Raiment of Their Companion.

A large party of boys living in the eastern part of the city went to he Back Pond, yesterday, for a swim. All entered the water except two brothers who loitered about where the boys had left their clothes, for a time, and then took their departure. When the boys came out of the water, a son of Louis Kere, of Beattle avenue, discovered that his coat and trousers were missing and clothes. The missing coat and trousers were almost new and the water are so a rougly suspected of stealing them that they have been returned, to-day, proceedings will be instituted.

The dead body of an unknown man was found, early yesterday morning, lying by the side of the Erie track in Binghamton. An autopsy showed that death was due to internal hemorrhage, caused by a fracture of the pelves, but the manner in which the injury was received can only be conjectured.

A letter written a year ago by Robert Christie, of Glasgow, Scotland, to John Christie, of Lowell, Mass., was found on the man's body, also several newspapers, among them a copy of the Goshen Independent Republican addressed "A. S. Murray, 32 Nassau street."

TO-MORROW'S TAX ELECTION.

Taxpayers Have a thance to Say whether They Will Add to the Caunell's Big Budget-Figures that Should Be Studied-Possibilities of the Fu-

The taxpayers of this city will decide by their votes, to-morrow, how much they are willing to add to the taxes that they will have to pay this year. Even if every item on which they will have a chance to vote is voted down, the taxes this year will be nearly as much as last year, when th y were only $70,000. The Common Council by an amendment to the city charter is authorized to appropriate not to exceed $45,-000 for "necessary expenses." This year the Council made up a budget of $44,605 12, or within $395 of its limit, but the Mayor thought it advisable to exercise his right to cut down the appropriation and make a showing of economy, but succeeded in reducing th amount only $2,400. leaving the Common Council budget as follows. cil is required by the charter to place in the tex levy the requisition of the Board of Education for the funds necessary to carry on the public schools for the pext year; also such amounts as are necessary to pay the interest and principal of the public debt and erroneous tax assessments. Under this head the Council has named the following suins:

Board of Education ..... $22,600 00 Sinking fund...... 2,000 00 Interest on sewer bonds . Interest on notes, etc .... Erroneous taxes.....

Total ..... $25,843 26 This added to the Ocuncil's budget | present. makes a total of $68,048 38, a very respectable tax levy of itself, and within $1,960.80 of the total amount of last year's levy.

In addition to this, however, the Council asks the taxpayers to vote the following sums: Permanent street fund..... $ 7,500 00 Thrali Hospital..... New truck for Excessiors .. 1,800 00 Annual flire parade...... 700 00 Winding town clock...... 100 00 Gen Lyon Post, G. A. R

Capt. Jackson Post 50 00 Should the taxpayers see to fit to vote $7,500 for permanent street improvements, in addition to the $7,000 for streets appropriated by the Council; the $1,800 for a new truck for Exc-laiors; $1,2 50 for Thrall Hospital; $700 for the p rade and the amounts asked for winding clock and G. A. R Posts, the total tax levy will be $79.498 38, or $9 489 20 more than last year, when, as we all know, our taxes were high enough. It is also understood that the amount named in the second table given above above for eir neous taxes will have to be increased, but how much is not yet known.

Taxpayers must remember that they cannot scale down any of the amounts but must vote no or yes on each item.

With a regular tax levy of nearly $80 000 and the need of many thousand dollars more for school buildings, which the Board of Education must have and which they cannot secure by issuing bonds as was proposed, to say nothing of the necessity of expending a very large sum for more water, with Wawayanda's demand that we should take care of the city's sewerage, which, if we are compelled to do it, will cost a very large sum of money. It behooves the taxpayers o think well before they act,

There should have been more economy in making the Common Council appropriations. Seven thousand dollars for a general street fund has been appropriated and the people are asked to put up $7,500 more as a general tax, which means that property owners along the line of the permanent improvements must pay $15,000 more.

Middletown's tax rate has increased altogether too fast in recent years. but it is asking a good deal of the people to make an increase of $19,000 In the suit of Ananias B. Hulse, of in a single year. A high tax rate Monroe, vs. Eugene D. Stokem does not add to a city's prosperity.

ZETTE.

Upon the posters which hung on the cutside of the carriage she was styled "Mlle. Antonia, Somnambule Extraln-

Her mother called her Zette—her real name was Suzanne.

She was a pretty girl, not very large, with fair complexion and long black hair that she let float about her during her consultations, though ordinarily she wore it in a loose coil upon the nape of a neck that was perfect.

Never having done much work, her hands were delicate and well shaped. She was enough of a coquette to wish to keep them so. She had a finely modeled form, and to have seen her simply dressed in some quiet color, with the gait of a wise little workwoman, one would never have suspected her strange calling.

Her mother, Mme. Floury was as little like others of her class as her daughter. About her there was nothing in common with the shrews who frequent SPECIALTIES ! common with the shrews who frequent fairs in red dresses and soiled skirts. She had the air of a little merchant who was good and proper, with a winning, honest smile, and people stopped before the carriage and even entered there (without thinking of the charlatanism on the posters) in order to see the interi-or of this small dwelling that smelled so sweet.

> The vehicle was painted brown, with a thread of gold running the lengths of the plinths. There was a tiny balcony in front of it, and on this balcony con; volvulus and nasturtium vines, planted in boxes, twined about wires up to the roof, where they clustered in bright haed

The two women were always together, but associated very little with their Letter and Mono- neighbors. They were not proud, and having the best of hearts were the first to offer to care for a sick child or to give to others in distress. Indeed the foreigners who knew them well loved them sincerely, even though they did feel somewhat oppressed by what they termed "their grand manners."

There was, however, some one who vas all devotion to Zette and her mother. It was a young gymnast of two and twenty in a large traveling circus that had very nearly the same itinerary as Mme. Floury. His name was Jacques, but on the playbills they spelled it Jack. He was exceedingly handsome and of no common type. There was fire in his eyes and much intelligence in his smile. There was, too, much tenderness in this same smile, especially when he spoke to Zette. His love for this pretty brunette -so unlike any other woman he had seen about him in his wandering life—was very sincere. Near her he felt himself quite another man to what he was in the circus. There was such an atmosphere of honesty surrounding Zette that his own manners, when with her, were altogether different from what they had been, and he was astonished at how well they became him. Then, too, he had dreamed of being loved by this sweet girl and of never being separated from her. Their positions accorded admirably. His salary was good, and some day perhaps he might enter one of the great circuses of Lyons or Paris. It would be charming to find so sweet a little wife awaiting his coming after his work was done.

He had often spoken to Zette of these plans. He loved her so dearly that it could not be possible she did not love him at least a little.

Zette always listened silently, visibly touched by what she heard, and he thought each time she would say "Yes," but when he had finished by asking, with such pleading in his eyes, "Will you be my wife, Zette?" she replied very gravely, "No.'

Then Jacques would be astonished. Why not? Could it be that she did not believe him when he said he loved her; that she had no confidence in him; that she did not love him? "Yes, I love you," Zette answered sweetly, "but I do not wish to marry you.

And she would never say why. One day, however, Mmc. Floury blamed her for refusing the hand of this

"Lasten, mother," she said, "I adore Jacques, and I believe I shall always remain single because I do not wish to marry him. Do you remember the day when we went together to the circus? I saw as we entered how all the women who were there turned their longuettes toward him, and afterward they amiled and talked about him and triel to attract his attention by applauding him. I ought perhaps to have been proud to think that this man whom they all wanted loved me, and that I had only to say the word to be his wife. Ah, well, in my heart there was nothing but jealousy. I wanted to tear the lorgnettes away from those women. From what I suffered that evening I understood how much more I might suffer if we were married. No, that cannot be. He is too handsome. See? Supplies some day, when he had grown fired of me, one of those women cannot say yes." But not withstanding this obstinatorefusal, which be could not explam, Jacques came every day. He no longer mentioned the subject to Zette, understanding that he was contending against a fixed

So after thus simply settling the affair Tacques was like a brother in the house. it was he who in the springtime planted the seeds in the boxes upon the little balcony. It was he who twined the tendrils about the wires, and it was he who it all seasons furnished the gilded porcehin vases that held the flowers.

These flowers were a great luxury to

This state of things did not long continue, however. The young girl was now 20 and Jacques 26. One evening he persented his friends with tickets to the circus. It was the last day of a long continued fair, and Zette and her mother had nothing to do. So they decked themselves in their best and went early.

Mme. Floury was much amused with the horses, the rope dancers, the clowns, the trained dogs. Zette thought only of Jacques, whose name on the programme occupied a line to itself, and whose apparatus was hanging up at the top of the high tent. The latter consisted of bars, with copper balls that shone, a maze of trapezes, ropes and pulleys, and the young girl, a little frightened, inquired if it all was secure.

At last the first part of the performance was over, and keeping time to a slow waltz Jacques appeared. He was as beautiful as a god in his silk tights, that displayed to advantage his superbly molded form, and, for the rest, his costume consisted of a black satin calecon, spangled with gold.

After having re-ponded by a bow to the applaase of the crowd and by a smile to Zette's smile, he darted up a rope to his trapeze.

The preliminaries were gone through with amid prolonged braves, for the handsome gymnast was a favorite, and it was truly a pleasure to see him actthe supple body sapliant, yet so marvelously exact in its movements.

Then there came silence—even the orchestra was still. It was to be the hit of the evening and a new feat that was to give an added glory to the circus. He was to leap from one trapeze to another, with his face and head covered, then suddenly drop from this giddy height upon a net stretched below him. The two trapeze were swinging with a regular movement. Jacques, standing on a little board, his head enveloped in a black velvet bag, put forth his hand blindly. The crowd held its breath. The man was going to

A piercing cry rent the air. Missing the second trapeze, which had been badly regulated, Jacques fell to the ner, but it proved too frail to support his weight, and striking upon the seats he rolled to the ground, where he lay motionless.

With a cry of horror, Zette sprang to arm, "Come," she said in a hollow Breaking through the crowd, the two women reached the stables, but were refused admission. For a long while they remained at the entrance, listening to what was said around them, but no one knew anything. Finally Mme. Floury saw a clown whom she recognized as one of Jacques' friends. He was just coming out of the refreshment room when she called him. "The net broke the force of the fall," said the man, whose face looked tronbled, even under the paint. "The doctor says he will be lame for life, and that this ends for him his profession as a gymnast. Poor fellow! But he has something laid up for a rainy day." Mme. Floury looked at Zette. She was very pale, and her eyes were fixed upon the man as he spoke as though trying to find if he lied. At last she said, "Let us go." And thanking the clown by a gesture she left the circus. The two women did not speak as they traversed the grounds of the fair, and they were still silent as they ascended their own little stairway. But when Mme. Floury had lighted the candle she saw Zette sitting beside the bed, with a strange smile on her hps. She felt frightened for her and went to her. "Of what are you thinking, little daughter?" she asked, trying to reassure

It is Injurious Tο Stop Suddenly

And don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stoppage of the use of tobacco you must have some stimulant, and in most all cases, the effect of the stimulant, be it opium, morphine, or other opiates, leaves a far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about "BACO-CURO." It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with "BACO-CURO." It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacce vill cease. Your system will be as free from nicotine as the day before you took your first chew or smoke. An irouclad written guarantee to a solutely cure the tobacco habit in all its forms, or money refunded.

Dear Sirs—I have been a toolacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years were smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being at least. I tried the so-called "Keeley Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Cure," Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured. I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate sincker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.

Dear Sirs—I have been a toble of hend for thirty-three year- and during the past two years have used chewing tobacco very extensiderable. I have often tried to give up the use of tobacco, but alway failed, until I bought three boxes of your "Raco-Curo" I tsed tobacco at the same time while taking "Baco-Curo," and after a week I lost the appetite for tobacco—smoking or chewing. I am enjoying better health, and consider your "Baco-Curo" the safest, most harmless and reliable remedy for to break the tobacco habit.

Gentlemen—Last summer I furnished Mr
James Reid, of the town of Burnside, Trempealeau Co., with three boxes of your "Baco-Cura"

He had chewed tobacco for over forty years and the last year used over sixty-five pounds
He commenced using "Baco-Curo" and one box did not have the effect, when he had used about one-half of the second box, he began, to loce his taste for tobacco, and when he had used one-half of the third box he had lost all his appetite for it, and is now entirely cured.
Yours truly, J. C. Taxlor, Druggist.

WHAT MR. KRAEMER SAYS OF "BACO-CURO,"

This is to certify that L. F. D. Kraemer, of Atlantic, Iowa, was an inveterate smoker of cigarettes for more than two years.

About eight wooks each a cought and directions, and after taking one and one-half boxes, all the desire for cigarettes left me, and a have had no desire since.

I can heartily recommend "Baco-Curo" to all who are slaves to the cigarette habit or tobacco habit in any form, and are in search of a cure. I had become so under the influence of cigarettes, I could not remember anything; could not study, unless under the influence of the drug, which is death in the end. If kept up.

Cigarettes are sapping the lives out of more boys and young men to-day, than anything that is known to the world. Boys, before it is too late get some of this remedy that killed the craving for cigarettes in me and save your young life. Restore yourself to manhood. You will feel as though you had escaped an awful doom, and you have, when cured by "Baco-Curo," for you feel like a new being. I never felt better in all my life than at this present writing. I did not know what was the matter with me, until informed by the agent. He told me what was the reason Lould not do anything unless under the influence of the death-dealing poison found in cigarettes. I did not believe him at first, until he explained the action on the system.

The bought the goods and thank God and all concerned. I am a sound person to-day. Hoping the this may reach the unfortunate cigarette. The love of the death of the action of the system.

SHE WAS CRITICAL.

A Hemlock Rult Lady on Her Way to Susan Ann Pettibone's.

I was driving along the mountain road leading from Tom's Two Bridges to Heflin's Drop in the hemlock beit one day and was approaching a rather neat looking house on a small clearing at the side of the road, when a woman came running out of the house toward the road, waving a blue, baggy umbreila, tied with a white string. She carried in her other hand an old fashioned carpetbag of a red and yellow pattern. She waved the umbrella as if I were an approaching train that she was signaling against danger ahead. I stopped at the signal. The woman was sharp featured and elderly.

"Be ye goin ez fur ez the Drop?" she asked.

I said I was.

"No furder?" she inquired. That was as far as I was going.

"Couldn't ye make it handy to spurt on a couple o' miled furder to my darter Susan Ann Pettibone's?" the woman asked. I said I was sorry, but I couldn't go any farther than Heflin's Drop that day.

"That's kind o' tryin," my interrogator said, looking disappointed. "But I s'pose I kin walk them two miled, though I hadn't orter be ast to at my time o' life. Well, never mind. Jist cramp your wheel, sonny, an I'll git in an jog with ye ez fur ez the Drop. Two miled furder, though, wouldn't be much of a spurt fer your hoss. an the two miled back to the Drop wouldn't hurt him. I guess ye kin stick this here carpetbag right in front o' ye, there. Be keerful on it, though, fer tha's a can o' p'served peaches, an a can o' termattuses. an a can o' p'eserved quinces in that air bag ez I'm takin to my darter, Susan Ann Pettibone, an if they git broke I'll hef to ast ye to pay fer 'em. Jist hold my umb'rel while I climb inter your wagon, son-

"There! I guess I'm in, but I ain't sure. I never see setch an onhandy wagon to git inter! It's enough to stretch the hind legs of a kangaroo to climb inter it! Hope I didn't git no tar on this bombazine dress o' mine! Seems to me jist ez if I did! Don't see none, though. Now, sonny, jist put your legs over that carpetbag so's it won't fall outen this onhandy wagon o' your n. It's onhandy to climb inter, but seems to me ez if it was the handiest kind of a wagon fer a carpetbag to fall out of. But don't squeege down on the bag, fer mebbe ye mowt break some o' them cans o' p'eserves that's in it, an I'd hef to ast ye to pay fer 'em. Now I guess I'm all fixed, sonny, an ye kin drive ahead. I'd be obleeged if ye'd kind o' spurt your hoss a leetle, too, 'cause I'm on pins an needles to git to my darter Susan Ann Pettibone's an can't hardly wait. I better take that umb'rel, I guess. I'm afeerd ye mowt let it fall outen the wagon. I've had that umb rel more n 30 year an set a powerful store by it. There. Git ap, now,

All this hadn't taken up more than 15 seconds of time, but it was long enough for this remarkable woman to practically gain possession of me and my wagon, for all the time she was talking she was acting, and when she told me that I might "git ap" I found myself squeezed into one corner of my buggy seat, with my legs thrown over the big carpetbag, and the owner of the bag and her umbrella occupy-ing the rest of the establishment. But Heflin's Drop was only five miles farther on, and I "spurted" my horse so that I might get the agony over as soon as possible. We hadn't gone more than a quarter of a mile when my passenger turned her sharp face suddenly toward me and looked me over suspiciously. At last she said:

"Lightnin rods?" She evidently noticed that I was puzzled. for she supplemented her question with this one:

"I mean be ye peddin of 'em?"

"Oh, no!" I replied. "Sure?" she said, eving me dubiously,

I said I was quite sure.
"Well, me be ye ain't," she said, shaking her head, "but you'm jist the same size an build of a feller that nosed around through here last year, puttin up lightnin rods, an his receipts fer the money come back ez jedgment notes that'd take the shirt offen a man's back! Jist the same size an build e'zac'ly, but mebbe ye ain't him. I'm s'pectia to see this hoss o' yourn balk ev'ry minute! If he does I'll hef to dillydally, an my darter Susan Ann Pettibone'll be powerful worried! I don't see why folks can't drive hosses that don't act jist ez if they was goin to balk ev'ry minute! Patent hay fork ?" I said no. Not patent hayforks.

'Rake-Y'

"No." said I. "Young man," she said. "you don't want to set here an tell me you're tax collectin?

I said I didn't want to do anything of the sort, because I wasn't tax collecting. This remark the woman remained quiet for a few mi utes and then turned on me again.

"I dunno whether to congratulate ye or not," said she, " 'cause I ain't sure that you'm the chap from the county seat that's coming over to marry Squire Polhemus' darter Jinny up to the Drop. Be ye?'

I said that I was not the chap. "Then I kin congratulate ye!" said this remarkable woman. "Squire Polhemus" darter Jinny is the stuckuppest whipper snapper of a gal tha' is in all this spread an the chap from the county seat'll find out that he hain't set hisself down in no butter tub when he marries that redhead Jinny Polhemus! So you ain't him? Then I kin congratulate ye! Now, if your hoss don't balk, we'll be at tha Drop in ten minutes. But I know he will! He acts just like it, an folks seems to hev balky hosses fer nothin else but to git me a ridin behint 'em an then makir me dilly dally! Hey ye broke any o' them cans o' p'serves, think?" I hadn't broken any, and the horse did not balk, and, sure enough, in ten minutes we were at the Drop.

"That crossroad yender to the right is the one that runs by my darter Susan Ann Pettibone's," said my passenger. "It don't seem to me ex if it was with while for me to git out till I git there, arter havin had so much trouble a gittin inter this onhandy wagon o' yourn. I guess ye better spurt on to Susan Ann's."

But I took a different view of it, and this remarkable woman and her baggage got out at the crossroads. When she had got to the ground, she turned on me and

"If that ain't the onhandlest wagon to git in an out of that I ever see, then I'll eat the greaser! An I've heerd o' onaccommodatin an disobligin folks, but you beat 'em all!"

Then she strode away toward her daugh ter Susan Ann Pettibone's, shaking her head as she went, and I hurried on to the tavern at Heslin's Drop to find such relief as it might grant. -New York Sun.

WEERD ON THE ROLLER COASTER.

AL Scrap of Conversation that Suggest sed that a Lady Was Using Strong Lan-

A lady and her escort occupied the mear seat on a roller coaster at Midway Park, a day or two age, and a well known gentleman and a friend the front seat. At a point on the trip when the car ran a few feet with comparatively little noise, the elderly gentleman was startled by these words coming from the lips of the young lady: "Run like h-- 11."

He looked around in astonishment and the lady's face were a look of surprise and pain but there was no time for explanations then.

When the car landed, however, she Exactened to explain that she was merely giving the Chinaman's desexistion of the electric car to her sompanion, and applying it to the

The car was making a great racket when she began the description and she spoke in a loud voice and the words: "No pushee, no pullee, alle same," were heard only by her escort, Dut the last three words spoken in the same tone just as the noise suddenly ceased, were heard by all, and had the same effect upon her and her mearers as they would had they been zpoken after the sudden stopping of the music at a theatre.

The explanation was accepted and the lady promised to tell no more stories with swear words in them while making a trip on the coaster.

ONE FOOD FOR BABY

June Heat Must Not Weaken Baby's Stomach.

Strength an Absolute Neces sity During the Summer.

Safety Lies in Lactated Food and Perfect Cleanliness.

No mother needs to be told of all the babies that die before they reach the age of five. It is one of the solemn varities that just now is bringing anxiety to so many homes and to mothers, an agony of dread

Yet it is ceratio that to-day by the The National Union is closely allied | exercise of care in securing the proper nourishment, diet and absolute cleanliness, warm weather is in countless households robbed of its perila $3,000, $4,000 and $5,000. It has and made as beautiful for the little ones as for those of maturer years. In homes wherever lactated food is used no form of diarrhoeal disease enters. This is a noteworthy fact. ing, of course, New York. The order | The reason is that this highly nutrisnow numbers 50,000 members, and tlous, predigested and palatable food is the most perfect substitute for pure mother's milk. It is easily assimilated by the infant stomach. It keeps up the little one's strength, and as it contains not a particle of impurity, these two great causes of cholera infantum and diarrhoea are absolutely avoided. The lamentable jump in the infant death rate at the first advent of warm weather is traceable to wholly preventable causes. All diarrhoeal diseases, whether cholera infantum, diarrhoea or summer complaint, are preventable in infants by a diet of lactated food. Physicians emphatically say so.

High temperature alone cannot breed these disorders. It simply weakens the child's digestion and allows diarrhoea to enter as soon as the little one is overfed and its digestive system burdened by a poorly nourished dist. The first signs of looseness or apparent loss of strength are critical times in every baby's existence. Lactated food has saved countless little ones in such extremities.

When teething, and during hot weather, when babies are most capricious in their appetite, they take lactated food with relish when nothing else will tempt them.

Physicians, it will will be found, feed their own children on lactated food. The fact known to physicians from the start, that tactated food was prepared under the personal supervision of no less a man than Prof. Dr. Boynton of Vermont University, gave it immediate standing among practi-
